

The Enemy Within: Tyler Robinson is Trantifa

Charlie Kirk's Assassin, Domestic Terrorism and Left Wing Violence

ROBERT W MALONE MD, MS September 13, 2025

The opinions expressed below are my own, and do not represent those of the US Government, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, or the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

The day after the assassination of Christian youth leader Charlie Kirk, I made the case that it was necessary to wait for confirmation and additional information concerning the shooter and his motives. The recovered rifle and inscribed bullet casings seemed all too convenient, seemingly directing anger and blame towards certain left-wing subcultures. The needed information and confirmation are now available. This was not a lone wolf, this was a representative of a violent left wing subculture, a branch of the Antifa movement known as Trantifa or Transtifa.

If the Turning Point USA organization represents youth reaching for the light and a healthy, positive future, Trantifa is its dark counterpoint. Both compete and are engaged in recruiting and influencing the belief structures of American youth. Corporate media and their leftist echo chamber are guilty of actively and repeatedly portraying Turning Point USA as “far right” and falsely linking this Christian organization to either Fascism or the Neo-Nazi movement. But this is psychological projection and a perversion of both truth and the historic record. Historically, Fascism has always come from the left.

I am confident that certain Democrat party Senators and their aides, as well as their left-leaning Corporate media allies, will be tempted to misconstrue my words. To be explicitly clear, I am now calling on the US Federal Government and its legal investigative, enforcement, and homeland security capabilities to respond in full force to a domestic terrorist threat. I am not calling for, and specifically condemn vigilante violence. This has to be done rigorously, methodically, properly, professionally, and legally.

Based on available information, it is reasonable to infer that a member of the violent leftist organization self-identifying as “Antifa” would consider the founding leader of Turning Point, Charlie Kirk, as a high-value target. Cutting-edge social media researchers and image data mining specialists are rapidly accumulating confirmatory data, but for those who can read the meaning, the inscribed bullet casings tell the story.

Quoting Utah Governor Cox:

The three unfired castings were etched with the following:

“Hey Fascist! Catch! with an up arrow, right arrow, and three down arrow symbols”

“Oh beta chow bela chow bela chow chow chow”

“If you read this, you are gay lamo”

The spent casing carried the following inscription:

“Notices. Bulges. OWO. What’s this?”

What do the Inscriptions Mean?

To translate and understand the significance of these etchings, I turned to a recent essay in the on-line publication “Freedom and Reason”, authored by Andrew Austin. Austin is on the faculty of Democracy and Justice Studies and Sociology at the University of Wisconsin—Green Bay. Besides teaching courses on freedom and social control, research methods, and social theory, he has published numerous articles, essays, and reviews in books, encyclopedias, journals, and newspapers. Austin is not some pop-up engagement farming Instagram influencer seeking clicks, likes, and follows. Jill has been following his Facebook page and posts for quite a while now.

Antifa is hostile to the very liberal values that underpin a free society—democratic republicanism, freedom of conscience, speech, press, association, and assembly. Its reality is street violence: militants attacking conservatives for exercising their rights to gather and speak. It is the harassment and intimidation of anyone who affirms the reality of the gender binary in the face of trans ideology. It is the left's alliance with Islamism—clerical fascism—and the resurgence of antisemitism that energizes the movement. They hate the Enlightened West and everything it stands for. They seek anarchy. All this is promoted because it advances ends sought by transnational corporate power.

To drill down a bit on this, engravings on the bullet casings used by the shooter provide a window into the internal threat our Republic is facing, but one has to know what these engravings mean. The message on a fired casing read: "Notices. Bulges. OWO. What's this?" Messages etched on other cases: "Hey fascist, catch!" "O bella ciao, bella ciao, bella ciao, ciao, ciao." "If you read this, you're gay, LMAO."

The first line, a sexualized meme, is common in furry culture, which is a category of the trans movement. It's used in the online gaming community. The second line is a common sentiment expressed by Antifa. Fists, rocks, bullets, whatever, that's what fascists are supposed to catch. The third line is from a folk song adapted by Italian antifascists during the resistance during WWII. The fourth line is rather typical in the trans community, which is hostile to gays. This might strike the reader as odd. Aren't they in an alliance together? According to corporate marketing, sure. But, actually, trans is antithetical to gay.

I want to say more about the gay slur, because this is not obvious to many at first blush. In the trans worldview, a man who likes other men is not a homosexual but a heterosexual woman trapped in a man's body. You hear this from men who date trans women, which means they are gay, deny they are gay, by saying that trans women are women, which they obviously aren't and cannot be. Homophobia is deeply embedded in trans ideology.

This bizarre idea goes back to the crackpot sexologist Magnus Hirschfeld, who "theorized" that homosexual men are really women trapped in male bodies. Working with Nazi doctor Erwin Gohrbandt, Hirschfeld developed vaginoplasty. Hirschfeld and Gohrbandt's idea was to liberate men by removing their testicles, slitting their penises, and shoving what remains up into the abdominal cavity, creating a neovagina. Their victims would then pretend to be women and experience "trans joy."

The idea was updated by another crackpot sexologist in the 1960s, Robert Stoller, who promoted the term "gender identity," which became the central doctrine of radical gender ideology. This ideology is used by the medical industry to justify medical atrocities.

This is not just Antifa, but rather is a particularly perverted and virulent sect within Antifa that self-identifies as Trantifa or Transtifa. Malone.News published a deep and well-documented dive into this violent sect back in December 2023, and we are republishing that below. This sect was already well established at that time. Its members (like biological male swimmer competing in women's sports known as "Lia" Thomas) have been at the forefront of the transgender and gender transformation surgery movement so loudly supported by the American Academy of Pediatrics. There is a seamless continuum from this violent far-left movement to mainstream Democrat party politics.

The threat of organized political violence in the United States comes not from the two-dimensional cutout "Far Right Fascists" and "Far Right MAGA" as so often portrayed in both corporate media and the rantings of Democrat party leaders. That is a convenient projection, whether Freudian or calculated, I cannot say. What is clear is that Democrat party politicians, its media surrogates and apparatchiks have targeted Christians, traditionalists, and Constitutionlists while intentionally downplaying the violence and threat coming from within their own ranks.

They have used the term "The Continued Battle for the Soul of the Nation" to accuse MAGA of being a "Threat to Democracy" and the nation, in a campaign of fear and intimidation to propel them to midterm electoral victory. And now the chickens have come home to roost.

Andrew Austin's conclusion to his essay is a call to action that rings like a bell. Or perhaps I should say tolls; tolls for a response to the assassination of Charlie Kirk. It is now time to act. Hidden for years behind Signal chatrooms, the enemy within and without has shown its face. Years ago, President Trump saw this threat clearly, called it out, and was ridiculed by Corporate media and his political opponents for doing so.

Americans must denounce left-wing violence clearly and without qualification. This responsibility falls especially on Democrats and progressives, whose rhetoric has too often normalized and justified these ideologies. But how could we expect this when they're the ones who have normalized and justified these ideologies? One could easily compile clips of progressive leaders stoking unrest (I am watching as I write this). I would like to hope that any readers with these sympathies would confront for themselves the intellectual and moral roots of this problem and turn back from the New Fascism. But I am not hopeful.

Law enforcement, from DHS to the FBI, must take seriously the task of aggressively monitoring and disrupting this reactionary movement. Now is not the time to "dial down the temperature." This is the moment where the Republic must rise up and crush the enemies of liberty.

When Democrats tell you that Trump and MAGA are the greatest threat to democracy, what they actually mean is that Trump and MAGA, by endeavoring to restore the American Republic to its greatness, is the greatest threat to the technocratic order progressives built and the globalist project they represent to take the world to a planetary corporate neofeudalism. Antifa exists to advance this project.

Antifa and its subculture, Trantifa, operate using a decentralized cell structure hidden behind confidential modern messaging apps like Signal. This is another example of Fourth Generation Warfare tactics and strategy, as developed and operationalized by Al-Qaeda and the Taliban. All of these are terrorist organizations and must be treated as such.

Here is a Perplexity AI summary of how terrorist cells are organized

Essence of a terrorist cell structure:

- Compartmentalization → Each cell only knows what it needs to know. Members often don't know other cells, or even the full identity of leadership.
- Security through isolation → If one cell is discovered, interrogated, or infiltrated, it can't compromise the entire network because it lacks the bigger picture.

- Operational flexibility → Cells can work independently on logistics, recruitment, or attacks, so the organization can continue functioning even under pressure.

Think of it like a honeycomb: many small chambers, all contributing to the structure, but separated so that damage in one chamber doesn't collapse the whole.

I argue that these organizations (Antifa and Trantifa) appear to have used DEI policies to infiltrate both the US Federal Government and Corporate Media during the Obama/Biden administrations. The time to act is now.

Modern terrorism is Fourth Generation Warfare. Antifa and Trantifa are modern left-wing terrorist organizations.

Terrorist organizations often “operationalize” by taking broad ideological goals and translating them into concrete, tactical steps. A key feature of this process is the cell structure, which allows them to operate flexibly while limiting exposure if part of the network is compromised. Here's how this typically works, again as summarized by Perplexity AI:

1. Strategic Leadership

- At the top, many groups have a central leadership (sometimes a “Shura council” or similar body).
- This leadership sets ideological direction, target priorities, propaganda strategy, and oversees financing.
- Leaders often avoid direct involvement in operations to reduce risk.

2. Decentralization Through Cells

- Cells are small, semi-independent units (often 3–12 members).

Each cell might focus on:

- Recruitment

- Logistics (weapons, safe houses, transport)
- Financing (fundraising, extortion, smuggling)
- Operations (planning and carrying out attacks)
- Members of one cell usually know only their own team, not the full organization—this limits infiltration damage.
- Communication between cells often goes through intermediaries or encrypted methods to avoid detection.

3. Operational Planning

- Target selection: Chosen based on symbolism, impact, or vulnerability.
- Surveillance: Cells conduct reconnaissance to study patterns, defenses, and potential escape routes.
- Procurement: Other cells handle weapons, explosives, false documents, or funding.
- Execution: A dedicated operational cell carries out the attack, sometimes with logistical support nearby.

4. Support Networks

- Beyond the “armed” or “operational” wings, groups also maintain:
  - Propaganda/media arms to recruit and radicalize online or offline.
  - Social service arms (in some cases) to build community legitimacy.
  - Front organizations (charities, businesses) for fundraising and laundering money.

5. Global vs. Local Cells

- Some groups (like al-Qaeda) operate as franchises, where local cells pledge allegiance but act independently.
  - Others (like some nationalist groups) keep cells tightly controlled by central command.

Tyler Robinson is not a crazy lone wolf, but rather is one representative of a violent leftist movement, “tied to the technocratic order progressives have built, and the globalist project they represent, to take the world to a planetary corporate neofeudalism” that has been hiding in plain sight, under cover of Democrat party Diversity, Equity and Inclusion policies and promoted/weaponized cultural “tolerance” logic.

Wake up and smell the coffee. For Charlie’s sake, if for no other. We have met the enemy. And like an invited vampire, this evil is now within our house. What are we, what are you going to do about it?
